Spire Increase in Price

Since the colour paper edition of Spire began three years ago, our printers have kindly held the price to 50p per copy. Unfortunately, production costs have risen this year, so we are increasing the price to 60p per copy from this month - or £6 for the full year. We have decided to do this rather than take in adverts to ensure plenty of the content you hopefully enjoy.

Too Busy for Eternity?

A few quieter days over Christmas gave me chance to read a couple of books out of choice and not necessity.

The first was Christianophobia by Rupert Shortt, which details the situation of the Christian minorities in many countries today, who are suffering considerable persecution, but the West is simply ignoring their plight. Many of the countries of persecution are Muslim dominated countries in the Middle East, where non Muslims (not just Christians) are very much second class citizens with less rights than the Muslim majority. Ironically they are often considered pawns of the West, regardless of the fact that many of them were living there long before Mohammed was even born! (ie like the Copts in Egypt and the Christian Communities in Persia, Iraq and Syria) It's not just Muslim lands, in India Christians also have a hard time with Hindu fundamentalists, and similar situations exist with Buddhists in Burma and Atheists in North Korea and China.

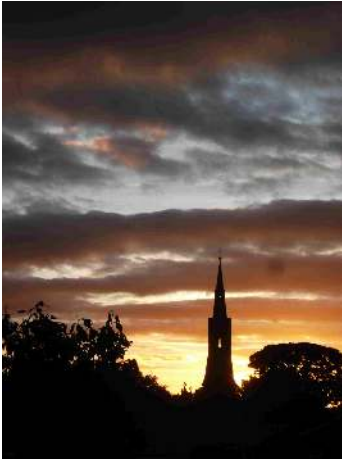

If minorities were suffering such harassment and discrimination in this country, there would be hell to pay and the media would be in overdrive in indignation, but Rupert Shortt wonders why the West is silent at Christians suffering. In many Middle Eastern Countries where they have been for 2,000 years, they are increasingly an endangered species. Their loss will also be felt by many moderate Muslims who have valued their voice of sanity and fairness, when they have been afraid to speak out themselves.

What I found particularly disturbing about all this, is when I went to write about it, I discovered that I had already previewed this book from an article in the Barnabas Fund magazine in February Spire last year, and had forgotten all about it.

The devil doesn't have to win an argument, just to keep us so occupied with other arguments that we forget what is really important. Life can be so busy, that we can lose sight of the wood because there are too many trees in the way! I commend this book to you - again.

The other book I have just finished reading was recommended by a church member who had recently lost her son. It is called Proof of Heaven: A Neurosurgeon's Journey into the Afterlife by Eben Alexander.

Eben was a neurosurgeon working in a hospital in America, when in 2008 he contracted meningitis and was in a deep coma for seven days. Most adults don't survive such an experience and those who do may find considerable damage to their brains.

Instead of this, Eben had a profound Near Death Experience where he believes he travelled to the next life and even met with God. Whatever his experience was, he has certainly come back a changed man as a consequence. Having heard many of his patients over the years describe similar experiences only for him to mentally dismiss them, he now feels that as a Neurosurgeon himself who has had this experience, that he should stand by it.

I have over the years encountered several people who have had similar experiences, often just before they have been resuscitated in operating Theatres. One person told me of an experience of being drawn to the light, which welcomed them, but didn't judge them. They insisted that they would never fear death again.

Eben's experience has convinced him that we are not so much human beings having a spiritual experience, but rather spiritual beings having a human experience. He found love and healing deep within his experience and now works to spread that message

What is the truth of these experiences? As Christians we firmly believe in another life after this one, and at all Funeral Services I commend people to it. No, we don't know all about it, but sometimes we are privileged to have a glimpse. That glimpse may come through the scriptures, our prayers or worship - but may also come through other "non-religious" experiences of life. What we need to keep is an open mind, for just like the busyness that kept me away from remembering the persecuted Church, I wonder how much the busyness of life and the cynicism of the world blind us to the spiritual life going on around us all the time?

May you find time in life to smell the flowers.

Roger Steps Down from All Saints

Back in 1996, following the death of Mike Norgan, Roger Arkell kindly agreed to become the new Custodian of All Saints. He had a tough act to follow, for Maurice Hodgson, who had done so much to maintain All Saints long before it was fashionable, was still around to see what he was doing.

There was never any worry, for Roger gave himself wholeheartedly to this voluntary role and has put innumerable hours in over the years in meeting with Architects, Surveyors, craftsmen, Churchwardens and representatives of English Heritage as he sought to maintain the gem of a Church we have in our midst, as well as attending meetings elsewhere supporting our local heritage.

For Roger, All Saints Church is far more than a historic building, it is alive and speaks to people today giving them peace and inspiration. He was always delighted that services still happened in All Saints, from the summertime Wednesday morning Communion and Sunday evening services, to the annual Captain Cook's Service and the packed crowds at the annual Christmas Carol Service.

For many years Roger worked with John Huddlestone on the day to day maintenance, and with Ray Huddlestone who organises the Church Guides. All the Guides will bear witness to the frequency of Roger's visits to All Saints, as he both loved Church and the visitors who came to see it, and on occasions even invited some back home for lunch!

Roger has now decided as he approaches a big birthday, that now is the time for him to step down and hand over to others, whilst he is still enjoying the work.

We thank Roger immensely for all his work over the years, and to his dear wife Anne, who has supported him throughout and coped with all his absences when at Church. We know that Roger will miss All Saints, but it is doubtful that he will miss filling in Faculty Forms (Church Planning Permission)!

Well done Roger for all that you have given.

Trainee Reader at Christ Church

A new face will be appearing at Church until Easter, as we have a trainee Reader with us to experience life in a different Parish.

Jane Robson comes from the Parish of Saint George's, Normanby (where Diane Colbert also came from, and who may have suggested us to Jane.) Saint George's Church is more Evangelical than Christ Church and more informal in its worship. It is linked in a team ministry with Christ Church in Eston, and so Jane will be helping out in both. She will get a different experience from being with us, but hopefully both an enjoyable one and a useful one, so please make her welcome.

During the week Jane works as a Hospital Pharmacist at North Tees Hospital.

Where There's a Will

An article regarding Wills in our November Magazine prompted a response from a solicitor living in Great Ayton who specialises in Wills, Probate and Lasting Powers of Attorney.

Andrew Blair, who is also the assistant organist at Guisborough Parish Church, works for Smith and Graham Solicitors in Hartlepool, a long established High Street firm. They have formed links with charitable organisations, clubs and community groups in Hartlepool by donating a proportion of the cost of setting up a Will to a person's nominated charity or club.

Having read in Spire the article concerning Wills, and in particular our need for funds to restore the Church Pipe Organ, Andrew felt that he could also offer a similar service to Great Ayton residents. If you do not have a Will, or your existing Will is out of date, then Andrew would be happy to assist in drafting a Will for you, and Smith & Graham will donate 10% of their charges to a charitable organisation in Great Ayton. Andrew told Spire "When I read Paul's article, I felt that there was an opportunity both to encourage people in the village to get around to making or reviewing a Will whilst also supporting the work of Christ Church or another worthy local cause".

Andrew is happy to arrange to see you at your home for an initial chat with a view to him professionally drafting a Will for you. As well as Christ Church, those who choose to use his services can have a choice of other local charitable organisations to support including Cleveland Mountain Rescue Team and Yatton House.

If you wish to contact Andrew, please call 01429 271651 or email him at blair@smithandgraham.co.uk

THE CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

Happy New Year to you all - we hope you had an enjoyable and healthy time over Christmas.

On Advent Sunday the annual Christingle Service was held and it was as good as ever. We thank the singers, readers and youngsters who performed during the service, and also the scouts who helped to make the Christingle oranges. The amount raised this year was £429.81 which was excellent.

Just before Christmas the committee sang carols on the High Street and they were joined by others - almost 30 in total. Our thanks go to John & Jamie for their guitar playing, and also to Laura & Wendy for their solos. The weather was very blowy, but £192.25 was collected - up on last year when it was snowy.

Our next event is the Box Opening Coffee Morning, which we are holding on Wednesday, 26 February, at 10.30 a.m. in The Parochial Hall, so please make a note in your diaries.

Mothers' Union News

Several members went to the Deanery Carol Service at Brookfield which was lead by Paul. A lovely service and the Mothers Union Choir were superb.

The Wilton Male Voice Choir entertained us at the Social afternoon in January and a superb tea was pooled by our members - thanks to all who provided and helped during the occasion.

Before Christmas, Kath and I took a loaded car to the Women's Refuge, for which they were very grateful. We then took some items which had been donated to the Seafarers. I also have some items for the Prem Baby Unit which I take periodically during the year. Many thanks to all who donated any of those items.

A very Happy and Prosperous New Year to everyone.

Seven Years On

One fine spring day, some seven years ago, two women sat outside a little wooden house in Darjeeling. The house was on a steep hillside looking out over a splendid vista of dark hills and ridges which disappeared into a blue haze topped by the snowy peaks of the Himalayas. Anything seemed possible on such a day. How else to explain their decision to open a new school for the poorer children in the area. They would need absolute confidence in each other's capabilities and integrity. Could a shy young Indian woman and an elderly Englishwoman really make it work? Perhaps it was the steaming mugs of fragrant Darjeeling tea which sealed the deal?

That day seems far away as I watch children making their way down the school steps in their smart red and grey uniforms. Teachers stand chatting on the yard.

Children call “Good morning Miss” and to me “Good morning Ma’am” There is an air of purpose and order. The children gather in little groups, girls in one corner, boys in another. Assembly is called and they all line up in the open air, monitors from the oldest class checking lines are straight.

Later in a spacious classroom in their new building, I admire the colour scheme, then watch with some surprise as the teacher takes her seat cross legged on the floor with the children. It was during a previous visit that we plotted to stop the endless copying from the blackboard by removing it to a small carpeted area away from the desks. Now I see that this simple ploy has brought about a major revolution in teaching method.

I enjoy the lesson, the first of many that week, and allow myself a glow of pride in their achievements. Roseberry School is already changing young lives just as we dared to hope that fine spring morning seven years ago, and now that the first intake of pupils have spread their wings and moved on, empowered by a decent education, I feel more committed than ever to making sure the good work continues.

Helen Jones

School Aid India was one of the charities suggested to the PCC that we support with the donations that come out of our budget. Helen lives in Great Ayton, and some had already heard of the wonderful work she has done in India with Roseberry School. To her delight we sent £1,000 in November to help the charity, which appeared as a godsend at the right time, as many charities are feeling the pinch. We are delighted to hear of the work here in Spire and will be supporting the school with our Charity Auction of Surplus Gifts on 1st February. Come along and give your support.

Rosemary Retiring as Churchwarden

At this year's Annual Church Meeting for Great Ayton and Easby, Rosemary Wheway will be retiring as Churchwarden after eight years in the post.

Always cheerful, reliable and positive, Rosemary has been a reassuring presence in Church, always keeping an eye out for newcomers and to ensure the right people are in the right place at the right time.

Rosemary has always led from the front, always being willing to be personally involved in what ever has been going on. When the Bazaar finished several years ago, Rosemary rallied folk together for a most successful Coffee Morning each year since.

The Churchwarden's role also involves a certain amount of committee work, as they are the legal guardians of the Church, taking a lead in the maintenance of the buildings and abiding by current legislation in health and safety and Child Protection. We have been very fortunate to have someone so well organised and committed to our Church. I am sure I speak for Eugene, Eric and Martin, all of whom have served alongside Rosemary as Churchwarden, in paying tribute to her as a wonderful colleague to work alongside.

In stepping down from Churchwarden, Rosemary will remain involved in many of her other commitments in the life of our Church, in particular with the running of the Church Visiting Group.

Now the search is on to find someone else willing to take on this ancient and important office in our Church. Martin Simmons will be standing again as the other Churchwarden. Over recent years we have tried to have a man and a woman, but it is not a necessity.

Could God be calling you to make a special contribution to the life of Christ Church in this way? Or perhaps you know just the person who would be really good in doing it. Time to start praying now that the right person may come forward.

Youth work project celebrates 10th Anniversary, and still going strong!

A local project is celebrating 10 years of Christian youth work at Stokesley School. A full- and a part-time Christian youth worker are funded by many local churches and individuals in the area, including Christ Church. The project is linked to the UK-wide organisation Youth for Christ, which also organises visits by young people from the USA, who come for up to a year to work on a voluntary basis alongside the regular staff. The team provides input into

RE lessons and assemblies at the school, runs lunchtime clubs, provides personal mentoring, and runs a "Cafe Church" event at Costa, Stokesley once a month. Outside of school, the team also works with several church youth groups in the area. The chair of the committee which oversees the project, Stuart Johnson, commented: "We are excited to be celebrating 10 years of this very important work, which is an excellent partnership between the project staff, gap year volunteers, local churches, and the school staff. We have seen so many young people growing in faith as a result of the project, and look forward to much more! We are very grateful to our generous supporters who make this work possible."

As a celebration of the anniversary the project has organised a

Ceilidh,

which will be held on

Saturday 1st March at St Joseph's Church Hall, Stokesley, with The Cleveland Bays.

All are invited - tickets are available from Stuart Johnson (710184) Chris Stokeld (723573), or Geoff Jaques (722979) priced £7 single / £20 family (includes a pie and pea supper). Come along and find out more about the project, and shake off the winter blues!

Top of the Tree

The Dickinson's thought the tree looked nice
The children thought so too.
"But we haven't got an angel
And we haven't got a star."
Said Helen very sadly and she shed a salty tear.
"Go rummage in your toy box,"
The thought came in her head.
But she didn't find an angel
And she didn't find a star,
Only a tiny teddy, much the worse for wear.
Helen wrapped it up in tinsel
With a bottle top for a crown.
Then placed it very carefully
Atop the Christmas tree.
The teddy thought, "I've made it,
Takes a lifetime of ambition
To get right to the top."
And to his wonder and delight
He stayed there 'til twelfth night!

Jim Knights

In a sermon after Christmas I happened to remark that we either put an Angel or a Star on top of our Christmas trees, because in St. Luke's Gospel it was an Angel that heralded the birth of Jesus, whereas in St. Matthew's Gospel it was a Star that led the Wise Men.

On asking for a show of hands it was apparent someone had something else on top of their tree! This got Jim thinking and the poem above was the result.

WHAT IS LOVE.....

Love is caring about each other.
Father, Mother, Sister, Brother.

Love is two people making a vow.
Love is making up after a row.

Love is holding your baby close too.
Love is sharing the things that you do.

Love is for people lost and found.
Love is in Nature all around.

Love is of music & romantic nights.
Love is a red rose & "Wuthering Heights".

Love is in poetry, books & art.
Love is in hymns, songs of the heart.

Sitting on the side of the highway waiting to catch speeding drivers, a State Police Officer sees a car puttering along at 22 MPH. He thinks to himself, "This driver is just as dangerous as a speeder!" So he turns on his lights and pulls the driver over. Approaching the car, he notices that there are five old ladies -- two in the front seat and three in the back - eyes wide and white as ghosts. The driver, obviously confused, says to him, "Officer, I don't understand, I was doing exactly the speed limit! What seems to be the problem?"

"Ma'am," the officer replies, "You weren't speeding, but you should know that driving slower than the speed limit can also be a danger to other drivers."

"Slower than the speed limit?" she asked. No sir, I was doing the speed limit exactly... Twenty-Two miles an hour!" the old woman says a bit proudly. The State Police officer, trying to contain a chuckle explains to her that "22" was the route number, not the speed limit. A bit embarrassed, the woman grinned and thanked the officer for pointing out her error.

"But before I let you go, Ma'am, I have to ask... Is everyone in this car ok? These women seem awfully shaken and they haven't muttered a single peep this whole time." the officer asks. "Oh, they'll be all right in a minute officer. We just got off Route 119."

Bubba walked into a doctor's office and the receptionist asked him what he had. Bubba said: "Shingles." So she wrote down his name, address, medical insurance # & told him to have a seat.

Fifteen minutes later a nurse's aide came out and asked Bubba what he had. Bubba said, "Shingles." So she wrote down his height, weight, a complete medical history and told Bubba to wait in the examining room.

A half hour later a nurse came in and asked Bubba what he had. Bubba said, "Shingles." So the nurse gave Bubba a blood test, a blood pressure test, an electrocardiogram, and told Bubba to take off all his clothes and wait for the doctor.

An hour later the doctor came in and found Bubba sitting patiently in the nude and asked Bubba what he had. Bubba said, "Shingles." The doctor asked, "Where?" Bubba said, "Outside on the truck. Where do you want me to unload 'em?!"
